"The Ayes

The eyes have all the work to do, they are husy working when ever you are, and they work to help give you a good time.

They are willing workers, too, and accommodate themselves to all sorts of unreasonable conditions. But they will give out under continued abuse, unless you heed their warning.

When your head aches,-when you feel dizzy, and your eyes smart and sting, and things look blurred,-take the warning that your eyes are giving you, and have them examined at once.
